

BELIEVER: NEW LGBTQ+ PARANORMAL AUDIO DRAMA PREMIERES

First episode goes live on March 3, 2020

March 3, 2020 (LOS ANGELES, California) - A NEW SCRIPTED AUDIO DRAMA combines a complex LGBTQ+ protagonist with twists on well-known cryptids and paranormal lore.

Created, written, and produced by playwright and TV scriptwriter Julie Saunders, BELIEVER is the story of a fake psychic who travels to a small town in Oregon in search of her missing ex-girlfriend. Dealing with themes of faith, belief, and mental illness, the show mixes real-world paranormal stories and concepts with a fictional setting. The first season places Bigfoot lore against a Lovecraftian backdrop, all set in the Mount Hood National Forest. With a complicated bi/pan protagonist and a distinctly Pacific Northwest mood, BELIEVER seeks to feel familiar and brand new all at once.

The 10-episode first season begins on March 3, 2020, with episodes released every other Tuesday. It can be found in all major podcast apps along with YouTube and Spotify.

Fans of TV shows like Twin Peaks, X-Files, Evil, or Castle Rock should feel right at home with BELIEVER.
